More than four decades ago, our founder, Margot Gayle, took a stand for our city's Victorian culture and architecture. "Why not let people in the future enjoy some of the things we thought were extremely fine?" she said in an interview with the New York Times. Since then, the Victorian Society New York has been championing the preservation and appreciation of our city's 19th- and early 20th-century heritage.

Contributions to the Annual Fund help the VSNY present free lectures and support its educational initiative in collaboration with the LAB School in Chelsea. Your support today also helps the Chapter recognize local preservation advocacy programs, restoration projects, publications and museum exhibitions through its annual awards program.
